FRANKLIN SQUARE,
NEW YORK.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

The great design of Harper's is to give correct information and rational amusement to the great masses of the people. There are few intelligent American families in which Harper's Magazine would not be an appreciated and highly welcome guest. There is no monthly Magazine an intelligent reading family can less afford to be without. Many Magazines are accumulated. Harper's is edited. There is not a Magazine that is printed which shows more intelligent pains expended on its articles and mechanical execution. There is not a cheaper Magazine published. There is not, confessedly, a more popular Magazine in the world.—New England Homestead.

A repository of biography and history, literature, science, and art, unequaled by any other American publication. * * * The volumes are as valuable as a mere work of reference as any cyclopædia we can place in our libraries. Harper's Magazine is a record of travel every where since the hour of its establishment. Livingstone and Gordon Cumming in Africa, Strain among the Andes and Ross Browne in the East, Speke on the Nile and Macgregor on the Jordan—indeed, all recent travelers of note—have seen their most important discoveries reproduced in these pages. Most of our younger and many of our older writers find here their literary biography. Our artists see the best evidences of their genius and the most enduring specimens of their work in the Magazine.—N. Y. Standard.

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

Harper's Weekly is an illustrated record of and commentary upon the events of the times. It treats of every topic, Political, Historical, Literary, and Scientific, which is of current interest, and gives the finest illustrations that can be obtained from every available source, original or foreign. This journal contains one-third more reading-matter, a larger number of Illustrations, and is conspicuously better Edited and Printed than any other Illustrated Newspaper. Its circulation is about 130,000—more than four times that of any similar publication.

A new serial story by WILKIE COLLINS, entitled "Poor Miss Finch," was commenced in Harper's Weekly for September 2. It is marked by all the brilliancy of style, fascination of character, and intensity of development which render this author the most popular of living novelists. New Subscribers will be supplied with the Weekly from No. 766 [for September 2], in which Number Wilkie Collins's story began, to the close of the year 1871, four months, for One Dollar.

HARPER'S BAZAR.

Free from all political and sectarian discussion, devoted to fashion, pleasure, and instruction, it is just the agreeable, companionable, and interesting domestic paper which every mother and wife and sweet-heart will require every son, husband, and lover to bring home with him every Saturday evening.—Philadelphia Ledger.

It is really the only illustrated chronicler of fashion in the country. Its supplements alone are worth the subscription price of the paper. While fully maintaining its position as a mirror of fashion, it also contains stories, poems, brilliant essays, besides general and personal gossip.—Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

There never was any paper published that so delighted the heart of woman. Never mind if it does cost you a new bonnet; it will save you ten times the price in the household economy it teaches.—Providence Journal.

SHAKSPEARE'S VOYAGE OF LIFE.

the world's a stage,

And the men and women merely players :

They have their exits

and their entrances ;

And one man in his time plays many parts,

His acts being seven ages.

THE DAWN OF LIFE.

first, the infant,

Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms :

Children are certain cares, but uncertain comforts.
More children have been hurt by overfeeding than ever died of hunger.

Best to bend while it is a twig.
Children have wide ears and long tongues.

Children pick up words as pigeons peas,
And utter them again as God shall please.

When children stand quiet they have done some harm
Children and fools have merry lives.
Children, when little, make parents fools.

THE MORNING OF LIFE.

And then, the whining school-boy, with his satchel,
 And shining morning face, creeping like snail
 Unwillingly to school :

Years teach more than books.

School-boys are the most reasonable people in the world :
 they care not how little they have for their money.

Train up a child in the way he should go.

Be patient, and you shall have patient children.

A single fact is worth a ship-load of argument.

Look to the budding before it has time to ripen into mischief.

The real orphan is not he who has lost his father, but he whose father gave him no education.

THE SPRING OF LIFE.

then, the lover,
Sighing like furnace, with a woful ballad
Made to his mistress's eyebrow.

The course of true love never runs smooth.

The follies of youth are food for repentance in old age.

'Tis better to be happy than wise.

The world is a net: the more we stir in it the more we get entangled.

So 'tis as decreed above, that, first or last, we all must love.

Beauty is but a transient blossom. Beauty is but skin deep.

Life is half spent before we know what it is.

Love of lads and fire of chats is soon in and soon out.

THE SUMMER OF LIFE.

hen, a soldier,
 Full of strange oaths, and bearded like the pard,
 Jealous in honor, sudden and quick in quarrel,
 Seeking the bubble reputation
 Even in the cannon's mouth :

The brave man seeks not popular applause.
 Then comes thy glory in the summer months.
 Force is the brute's, but honor is of man.
 The hour finds its man, the man the hour.
 None but the brave deserve the fair.
 A soldier's honor is dearer than his life.

THE MERIDIAN OF LIFE.

And then, the justice,
 In fair round belly, with good capon lined,
 With eyes severe, and beard of formal cut,
 Full of wise saws and modern instances.
 And so he plays his part :

Justice is a science which is only well taught by virtue.
 So many men, so many minds.
 A thing of men, by men appointed, for good or for evil.
 Circumstances alter cases.
 Evil communications corrupt good manners.
 Adult children are not all alike.

THE DECLINE, OR AUTUMN OF LIFE.

he sixth age shifts
 Into the lean and slipper'd pantaloon ;
 With spectacles on nose, and pouch on side ;
 His youthful hose well saved, a world too wide
 For his shrunk shank ; and his big manly voice,
 Turning again toward childish treble, pipes
 And whistles in his sound.

Autumn is come! The gladness of the spring, the revelings of summer hours are sped.
 A good life keeps off wrinkles.

THE WINTER OF LIFE.

The last scene of all,
 That ends this strange eventful history,
 Is second childishness, and mere oblivion;
 Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans every thing.

He heapeth up riches, and knoweth not who shall gather them.
 And man's life passeth thus away, a thing of joy and sorrow.
 You shall here see your follies reflected.
 Time, that devours all things.
 All are desirous to win the prize.
 I am what thou shalt be. I have been what thou art.

YE GAMBOLIER.

WITH Kings and Queens, as well as Knaves,
 Y^e Gambolier doth Deal;
 He lives on Stakes, but doeth not
 Aught for y^e public Weal.

Full oft y^e merrie Gambolier
 In gay attire is seen;
 Y^e sportive cuss doth love to Play
 And Gambol on y^e Green.

He fain doth Cut, he loves y^e Chips,
 When he to balls doth go;
 Y^e Double Shuffle is for him,
 Y^e Break-down for his foe.

No storms appall y^e Gambolier
 For winds he doth not reek;
 For he is ever on y^e Seize,
 And traveleth on y^e Deck.

Y^e Gambolier doth ever speak
 Like Hamlet, by y^e Card;
 A soldier he who serveth not,
 Save on y^e Picquet-guard.

Ever y^e swifter passeth he
 Y^e more he lags behind,
 And eke more sharply doth he See
 When he is Going Blind.

When Death doth Call, and rakes his Pile,
 No panic doth he feel;
 He shuffles off this mortal coil,
 And cutteth for y^e De'il.

 The richest man ov all iz he who haz got but little, but haz got all he wants.

THE LATE BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.

BY MARK TWAIN.

[NEVER PUT OFF TILL TO-MORROW WHAT YOU CAN DO THE DAY AFTER TO-MORROW JUST AS WELL.—B. F.]

THIS party was one of those persons whom they call philosophers. He was born twins, being born simultaneously in two different houses in the city of Boston. These houses remain unto this day, and have signs upon them worded in accordance with the facts. The signs are considered well enough to have, though not necessary, because the inhabitants point out the two birthplaces to the stranger anyhow, and sometimes as often as several times in the same day. The subject of this memoir was of a vicious disposition, and early prostituted his talents to the invention of maxims and aphorisms calculated to inflict suffering upon the rising generation of all subsequent ages. His simplest acts, also, were contrived with a view to their being held up for the emulation of boys forever—boys who might otherwise have been happy. It was in this spirit that he became the son of a soap-boiler, and, probably, for no other reason than that the efforts of all future boys who tried to be any thing might be looked upon with suspicion unless they were the sons of soap-boilers. With a malevolence which is without parallel in history, he would work all day, and then sit up nights, and let on to be studying algebra by the light of a smouldering fire, so that all the boys might have to do that also, or else have Benjamin Franklin thrown upon them. Not satisfied with these proceedings, he had a fashion of living wholly on bread and water, and studying astronomy at meal-time—a thing which has brought affliction to millions of boys since, whose fathers had read Franklin's pernicious biography.

His maxims were full of animosity toward boys. Nowadays a boy can not follow out a single natural instinct without tumbling over some of those everlasting aphorisms, and hearing from Franklin on the spot. If he buys two cents' worth of pea-nuts, his father says, "Remember what Franklin has said, my son—'A groat a day is a penny a year;'" and the comfort is all gone out of those pea-nuts. If he wants to spin his top when he is done work, his father quotes, "Procrastination is the thief of time." If he does a virtuous action, he never gets any thing for it, because "virtue is its own reward." And that boy is hounded to death, and robbed of his natural rest, because Franklin said once in one of his inspired flights of malignity—

"Early to bed and early to rise,
Make a man healthy, wealthy, and wise."

As if it were any object to a boy to be healthy, and wealthy, and wise on such terms. The sorrow that that maxim has cost me, through my parents experimenting me with it, tongue can not tell. The legitimate result is my present state of general debility, indigence, and mental aberration. My parents used to have me up before 9 o'clock in the morning, sometimes, when I was a boy. If they had let me take my natural rest, where would I have been now? Keeping store, no doubt, and respected by all.

And what an adroit old adventurer the subject of this memoir was! In order to get a chance to fly his kite on Sunday, he used to hang a key on the string, and let on to be fishing by lightning, and a guileless public would go home chirping about the "wisdom" and the "genius" of the hoary Sabbath-breaker. He invented a stove that would smoke your head off in five hours by the clock. * * * He was always proud of telling how he entered Philadelphia for the first time with nothing in the world but two shillings in his pocket and four rolls of bread under his arm. But really, when you come to examine it critically, it was nothing. Any body could have done it. * * *

Benjamin Franklin did a great many notable things for his country, and made her young name to be honored in many lands as the mother of such a son. It is not the idea of this memoir to ignore that or cover it up. No; the simple idea of it is to snub those pretentious maxims of his, which he worked up with a great show of originality out of truisms that had become wearisome platitudes as early as the dispersion from Babel, and also to snub his store and his military inspirations, his unseemly endeavor to make himself conspicuous when he entered Philadelphia, and his flying his kite, and fooling away his time in all sorts of such ways, when he ought to have been foraging for soap-fat or constructing candles. I merely desired to do away with somewhat of the prevalent calamitous idea among heads of families that Franklin acquired his great genius by working for nothing, studying by moonlight, and getting up in the night instead of waiting till morning like a Christian, and that this programme, rigidly inflicted, will make a Franklin of every father's fool.

It is time these gentlemen were finding out that these execrable eccentricities of instinct and conduct are only the evidences of genius, not the creators of it. I wish I had been the father of my parents long enough to make them comprehend this truth, and thus prepare them to let their son have an easier time of it. When I was a child

I had to boil soap, notwithstanding my father was wealthy, and I had to get up early and study geometry at breakfast, and peddle my own poetry, and do every thing just as Franklin did, in the solemn hope that I would be a Franklin some day. And here I am.

CASABIANCA; OR, THE OBSTINATE SAILOR-BOY.

HE boy stood on the burning deck,
 He leaned against the pump ;
 A sailor said who saw him there,
 " Young fellow, you're a trump !"

And bravely he the music faced,
 In spite of smoke and flame ;
 Too plucky he to " fly the track "—
 ' That little boy was " game ."

Fast from the deck the sailors fled,
 But still he did not flinch ;
 Though things were getting very hot,
 " He wouldn't budge an inch ."

" Leave, leave the ship !" a sailor cried,
 But still he calmly staid ;
 And when they bid him save himself,
 He answered them, " That's played ."

He strove for honor and for fame,
 And not for worldly pelf:
 "I will not leave my post," he cried;
 "You know how 'tis yourself."

The flames devoured the stately ship;
 It was an awful scene,
 And yet the boys were not on hand
 Who "run with the machine."

Then came a blast, and boy and all
 Were hurled toward the sky;
 The fire had reached the magazine—
 "Say, how is that for high?"

GEORGE P. WEBSTER.

"HE STILL LIVES."

SAM WELLER'S MORAL TALE.

BY CHARLES DICKENS.

H, you've woke up at last, have you?" said Sam.

The fat boy nodded.

"I'll tell you what it is, young boa constructor," said Mr. Weller, impressively, "if you don't sleep a little less, and exercise a little more, wen you comes to be a man you'll lay yourself open to the same sort of personal inconvenience as was inflicted on the old gen'l'm'n as wore the pigtail."

"What did they do to him?" inquired the fat boy, in a faltering voice.

"I'm a-goin' to tell you," replied Mr. Weller; "he was one o' the largest patterns as was ever turned out—reg'lar fat man, as hadn't caught a glimpse of his own shoes for five-and-forty year."

"Lor!" exclaimed Emma.

"No, that he hadn't, my dear," said Mr. Weller; "and if you'd put an exact model of his own legs on the dinin' table afore him, he wouldn't ha' known 'em. Well, he always walks to his office with a very handsome gold watch-chain hanging out about a foot and a quarter, and a gold watch in his fob pocket as was worth—I'm afraid to say how much, but as much as a watch can be—a large, heavy, round manafacter, as stout for a watch as he was for a man, and with a big face in proportion. 'You'd better not carry that 'ere watch,' says the old gen'l'm'n's friends; 'you'll be robbed on it,' says they. 'Shall I?' says he. 'Yes, you will,' says they. 'Vell,' says he, 'I should like to see the thief as could get this here watch out, for I'm blest if I ever can, it's such a tight fit,' says he; 'and venever I wants to know what's o'clock, I'm obliged to stare into the bakers' shops,' he says. Well, then he laughs as hearty as if he was a goin' to pieces, and out he walks agin' with his powdered head and pigtail, and rolls down the Strand with the chain hangin' out furdur than ever, and the great round watch almost bustin' through his gray kersey smalls. There warn't a pickpocket in all London as didn't take a pull at that chain; but the chain 'ud never break, and the watch 'ud never come out, so they soon got tired o' dragging such a heavy old gen'l'm'n along the pavement, and he'd go home and laugh till the pigtail wibrated like the penderlum of a Dutch clock. At last, one day, the old gen'l'm'n was a rollin' along, and he sees a pickpocket as he know'd by sight a-comin' up, arm in old gen'l'm'n's stomach, and for a moment doubles him right up with the pain. 'Mur-arm with a little boy with a very large head. 'Here's a game,' says the old gen'l'm'n to himself; 'they're a-goin' to have another try, but it won't do!' So he begins a-chucklin' very hearty, wen, all of a sudden, the little boy leaves hold of the pickpocket's arm, and rushes headforemost straight into the headforemost straight into the der!' says the old gen'l'm'n. 'All right, sir,' says the pickpocket, a wisperin' in his ear. And wen he come straight agin, the watch and chain was gone, and, what's worse than that, the old gen'l'm'n's digestion was all wrong ever arterwards, to the wery last day of his life ; so just you look about you, young feller, and take care you don't get too fat."

As Mr. Weller concluded this moral tale, with which the fat boy appeared much affected, they all three repaired to the large kitchen, in which the family were by this time assembled, according to annual custom on Christmas eve, observed by old Wardle's forefathers from time immemorial.

JANE BLUDSOE, OF NATCHEZ.

UM feller's wrote a pome
 'Bout Bludsò ; they call him Jim.
 I know'd to my cost the Prarie Bell,
 And a heap too much about him.

"He never flunked and he never lied,"
 Ses the pote, so pert and slick ;
 But the way that feller lied to me
 Would a made Ananieras sick.

He swore that he loved me fair and true—
 O Lord, how that chap did sware!
 Then he tuck the money I'd saved for years,
 And went off to Pike on a tare.

He vow'd that he'd never seed
 Any other gal he cud like,
 And all the time he'd been married years
 To that critter up in Pike.

He never flunked—oh no, not him!
 You orter have seed us met.
 When I caught him in Pike with his other wife—
 There was flunkin' then, you bet.

And he never was engineer—
 A deck-hand, and nothing more;
 And never went up on the Prarie Belle
 But was fust to scuttle ashore.

He got up that yarn a purpus
 To fool the folks about;
 But I've follerd him up, you better believe,
 Determined to find him out,

Till I tracked him here to York.
 He looked like a lump of whitin',
 When I caught him, as airy as ever you please,
 In the Tribune offis ritin'.

FRANK BELLEW.

LAW is law. It is like an ignis fatuus: those who follow the delusive guide too often find themselves inextricably involved in a bog.

It is like an eel-trap: very easy to get into, but very difficult to get out of.

It is like a razor, which requires "a strong back," keenness, and an excellent temper.

N.B.—Many of those who get once shaved seldom risk a second operation.

HOW TU PICK OUT A GOOD HOSS.

BY JOSH BILLINGS.

First.—Let the color be a sorrel, a roan, a red, a gray, a white, a blak, a blue, a green, a chesnut, a brown, a dapple, a spotted, a cream, a buckskin, or sum other good color.

Seckond.—Examin hiz ears; see that he haz got tew ears, and pound a tin pan eluss to him, tu find out whether hiz hearing iz good. All hosses are dum, but a deff and dum hoss are not desirable.

Thurd.—Look well tu hiz eyes; see that he haz got a pupil in hiz eyes, and not too large a one neither; hosses with too large pupils in their eyes are near-sighted, and kant see oats, and hav tu wear green goggles, and green goggles make a hoss look tu mutch like a trakt pedlar.

Fourth.—Feel ov his neck with the inside ov yure right hand; see that the spinal collum iz well fatted, and runs the whole length ov him from fore tu aft—a hoss without a good phatt spinal collum from fore tu aft aint worth—(speakin sudden)—aint worth a well defined cuss.

Five.—Put yure hand on hiz breast (this iz allowable in the case ov a quadriped); see if hiz harte kan beat 70; squeeze hiz fore leggs tu see if he iz well muscled; lift up hiz before feet and see if thare iz enny frogs in them—frogs keep a hoss's feet cool and sweet, just az they do a well or a spring ov water.

Six.—Look well tu hiz shoes; see what number he wears—number 8 iz about right.

Seven.—Run yure hand along the dividing ridge ov hiz boddy, from the top ov hiz withers tu the commencement ov his tail (or dorsul vertibra), and pinch him az you go along, tu see if he knows how tu kick.

Eight.—Look on his hind legs for sum spavins, kurbs, windgalls, ringbones, skratches, quitters, thrush, grease-heels, thorough-pins, spring-halt, quarter-krack; see if he haz got a whirl-bone; look for sum pin-hips; hunt for strains in the back tendons, let-downs, and capped hocks.

Nine.—Investigate hiz teeth; see if he aint 14 years old last May, with teeth filed down, and a six-year old black mark burnt into the top ov them with a hot iron.

Ten.—Smell of hiz brea h tu see if he haint got sum glanders; look jstt back ov hiz ears for sighns of pole-evil; pinch him on the top ov hiz withers for a fistula, and look sharp at both shoulders for a sweeny.

Eleven.—Hook him tu a waggon that rattles, drive him up tu an Irishman and hiz wheelbarrow, meet a rag-merchant with cow-bells strung acrost the top ov hiz cart, let an express train pass him at 45 miles tu the hour, when he is swetty heave a buffalo robe over him tu keep oph the cold, ride him with an umbrel highsted, and learn hiz opinyun ov these things.

Twelve.—Prospekt hiz wind, sarch diligently for the heaves, ask if he iz a roarer, and don't be afraid tu find out if he iz a whistler.

Thirteen.—Be sure that he aint a krib-biter, aint balky, aint a weaver, and dont pull at the halter.

These are a few simple things tu be looked at in buying a good family hoss; there iz a grate menny other things tu be looked at (at yure leizure) after you have bought him.

Good hosses are skarse, and good men, that deal in enny kind ov hosses, are skarser.

Ask a man all about his wife, and he may tell you; examine him cluss for a Sunday-school teacher, and find him all on the square; send him tu the New York Legislature, and rejoice that money won't buy him; lend him seven hundred dollars in the highway without witness or note; even swop dorgs with him with perfekt impunity; but when you buy a good family hoss ov him, young, sound, and trew, watch the man cluss, and make up yure mind besides that you will have tu ask the Lord tu forgive him.

“An honest man iz the noblest work ov God;” this famus saying waz written, in grate anguish of heart, by the late Alexander Pope just after buying a good family hoss.

AUNT JERUSHA. A NEW ENGLAND FARM BALLAD.

[TIME: NIGHT BEFORE THANKSGIVING.]

AUNT JERUSHA sat late by the hot kitchen stove,
But her fancies were truant, and bound to rove;
And her eyelids grew wet with unbidden tears,
As her thoughts went wandering back through the years.

“Ah! well,” she sighed low, in a weary way,
“To-morrow will bring us Thanksgiving day;
And the house is crammed full of all good cheer
For the old and the young who’ll be crowding here.

“Under stacks of mince-pies bend the buttery shelves,
And cakes, where the children can stuff themselves

From the wide-mouthed crock, just behind the door,
Till they whimper because they can't hold no more.

“ And there's turkey and chicken-pie, beef, tongue, and ham,
Cider, barberry sauce, and blackberry jam ;
And lots of every thing else you can think
That company looks for to eat and drink.

“ I'll try to be cheerful, and laugh with the rest,
But it's climbin' up hill with a dull heart to jest ;
And mine has been good as dead years gone, be sure,
For I was the oldest, and father was poor.

“ And so for my brothers and sisters I toiled,
Till my temper was fretted, my good looks was spoiled,
And they twitted me once, and yet I was still young,
That my face was as ugly and sharp as my tongue.

“ So I'd never the chances my sisters all had ;
I was always too busy to chat with a lad ;
They was all married young, bein' pretty, you see,
But nobody never came courtin' to me.

“ And so—well, well ! Brother's consid'rate and kind,
And his wife—well, there isn't a great deal to mind ;
And he gives me a good home, but yet I'd much ruther
Have a man of my own than the very best brother.

“ A man sp'ills by livin' alone, they do say,
And with women, I'm 'fraid, it is much the same way ;
But, though I am always as willin' as can be,
Here I'm askin' myself yet, ' Where can the man be ?'

“ It’s a sin and a shame to keep lone women waitin’,
That ain’t nowadays averse to the fashion of matin’;
And if men are too stingy or bashful to tell ‘em,
The law ought to step in, and just take and compel ‘em.

“ But I notice, whenever the law interferences,
It’s always to come between sweethearts and dears;
’Twas just so in old times, when we was all girls,
Fellers had to be careful in flirtin’ with curls;

“ For the s’lectmen was always a mousin’ about,
To see just how late the young people staid out;
And a man could be whipped through the town of a Monday
For kissin’ his sweetheart or wife of a Sunday.

“I don't want no such laws! But if I'd my own way,
There'd not be an old bachelor after to-day;
Fer, whenever a soul of 'em reached forty-two,
I'd have 'em all put up and sold at vendue.

“And there ain't the least doubt 'twould be pop'lar with those Who are bach'lors because they hain't spunk to propose,
As is mostly the case; and then, as for the bidders,
The old maids should take precedence over the widders.

“Ah! well, it's the dream of a silly old brain;
What's the use of such fancies, that only give pain?
Good gracious! the clock's striking ten, 's I'm alive,
And I must be up in the mornin' at five.

“P'r'aps it's better as 'tis, I know, after all's said,
But, if some one came courtin', and asked me to wed,
I ain't a bit certain, as sure as I'm sittin'
In this creaky old chair, as I'd give him the mitten.”

S. S. CONANT.

THE EARLY TRAINING OF NASBY.

(Extract from an autobiography written by himself, but rendered in good English by a younger brother, who learned to spell in his younger days.)

MODESTY being the most prominent trait in my character, it is with reluctance that I speak of myself. In this one particular, George Francis Train and myself are very much alike; the only difference being, G. F. manages to make a good living out of his modesty, while I don't. But, modest as I am, I must say that I am a most excellent man. Indeed, I commenced being good at a very early age, and built myself up on the best models. I was yet an infant when I read the affecting story of the hacking down of the cherry-tree by George Washington, and his manly statement to his father that he could not tell a lie. I read the story, and it filled me with a desire to surpass him. I was not going to allow any such boy as George Washington, if he did afterward get to be a President, excel me in the moralities. Immediately I seized a hatchet, and cut down the most valuable cherry-tree my father had; and, more, I dug up the roots and burned the branches, so that by no means could the variety be preserved; and I went a skating one Sunday, that I might confess the two faults, and be wept over and forgiven on account of my extreme truthfulness. The experiments were, I regret to say, partial failures. I was very much like George Washington; but, the trouble was, my father didn't resemble George Washington's father to any alarming extent, which was essential to the success of my scheme. "Did you cut down that cherry-tree?"

asked he. "Father, I can not tell a lie. I did it with my little hatchet," I answered, striking the proper attitude for the old gentleman to shed tears on me. But he didn't shed. He remarked that he had rather I had told a thousand lies than to have cut down that particular tree, and he whipped me till I was in a state of exasperating rawness. The same devotion to truth is characteristic of my children. Truth is their weakness. They read the same story; but, alas! I had no horticultural tastes, and, therefore, no garden, and, as a matter of course, no cherry-trees about my house. At the age of eight, my eldest hankered for a cherry-tree. "Where is the tree for me to hack?" he perpetually asked. At ten he planted one, and nursed it, and watered it, and pruned it, that at twelve he might hack it down, and manfully confess that he did it with his little hatchet! Since that I have planted trees for them. The moment a male child is born to me, I plant a cherry-tree for him. There have been ten cherry-trees about my house—there are ten decaying stumps there now, to which I point with pride, as evidences of the entire devotion of my children to truth. I shall never be a President, but it seems to me there must be one in the family.

A NIGHT'S PLEASURE.

BY W. M. THACKERAY.

HE composer of the Overture of the New Grand Comic Christmas Pantomime, "Harlequin and the Fairy of the Spangled Pocket-handkerchief, or the Prince of the Enchanted Nose," arrayed in a brand-new Christmas suit, with his wristbands and collar turned elegantly over his cuffs and embroidered satin tie, takes a place at his desk, waves his stick, and away the Pantomime Overture begins.

I pity a man who can't appreciate a Pantomime Overture. Children do not like it: they say, "Hang it, I wish the Pantomime would begin;"

but for us it is always a pleasant moment of reflection and enjoyment. It is not difficult music to understand, like that of your Mendelssohns and Beethovens, whose symphonies and sonatas Mrs. Spec states must be heard a score of times before you can comprehend them. But of the proper Pantomime-music I am a delighted connoisseur. Perhaps it is because you meet so many old friends in these compositions consorting together in the queerest manner, and occasioning numberless pleasant surprises. Hark! there goes "Old Dan Tucker" wandering into the "Groves of Blarney;" our friends the "Scots wha hae wi' Wallace bled" march rapidly down "Wapping Old Stairs," from which the "Figlia del Reggimento" comes bounding briskly, when she is met, embraced, and carried off by "Billy Taylor," that brisk young fellow.

All this while you are thinking, with a faint, sickly kind of hope, that perhaps the Pantomime may be a good one; something like "Harlequin and the Golden Orange-tree," which you recollect in your youth; something like "Fortunio," that marvelous and delightful piece of buffoonery, which realized the most gorgeous visions of the absurd. You may be happy, perchance; a glimpse of the old days may come back to you. Lives there the man with soul so dead, the being ever so blasé and travel-worn, who does not feel some shock and thrill still—just at that moment when the bell (the dear and familiar bell of your youth) begins to tingle, and the curtain to rise, and the large shoes and ankles, the flesh-colored leggins, the crumpled knees, the gorgeous robes and masks finally, of the actors ranged on the stage to shout the opening chorus.

All round the house you hear a great gasping a-ha-a from a thousand children's throats. Enjoyment is going to give place to Hope. Desire is about to be realized. Oh you blind little brats! Clap your hands, and crane over the boxes, and open your eyes with happy wonder! Clap your hands now. In three weeks more the Reverend Doctor Swishtail expects the return of his young friends to Sugarcane House.

* * * * *

King Beak, emperor of the Romans, having invited all the neighboring princes, fairies, and enchanters to the feast at which he celebrated the marriage of his only son, Prince Aquiline, unluckily gave the liver-wing of the fowl which he was carving to the prince's godmother, the Fairy Bandanna, while he put the gizzard-pinion on the plate of the Enchanter Gorgibus, king of the Maraschino Mountains, and father of the Princess Rosolia, to whom the Prince was affianced.

The outraged Gorgibus rose from the table in a fury, smashed his plate of chicken over the head of King Beak's chamberlain, and wished that Prince Aquiline's nose might grow on the instant as long as the sausage before him.

It did so: the screaming princess rushed away from her bridegroom, and her father, breaking off the match with the house of Beak, ordered his daughter to be carried in his sedan by the two giant-porters, Gor and Gogstay, to his castle in the Juniper Forest, by the side of the bitter waters of the Absinthine Lake, whither, after upsetting the marriage-tables and flooring King Beak in a single combat, he him-self repaired.

The latter monarch could not bear to see or even to hear his disfigured son.

When the Prince Aquiline blew his unfortunate and monstrous nose, the windows of his father's palace broke; the locks of the doors started; the dishes and glasses of the king's banquet jingled and smashed as they do on board a steam-boat in a storm; the liquor turned sour; the chancellor's wig started off his head; and his royal father, disgusted with his son's appearance, drove him forth from his palace, and banished him the kingdom.

Life was a burden to him on account of that nose. He fled from a world in which he was ashamed to show it, and would have preferred a perfect solitude, but that he was obliged to engage one faithful attendant to give him snuff (his only consolation), and to keep his odious nose in order.

But as he was wandering in a lonely forest, entangling his miserable trunk in the thickets, and causing the birds to fly scared from the branches, and the lions, stags, and foxes to sneak away in terror as they heard the tremendous booming which issued from the fated prince whenever he had occasion to use his pocket-handkerchief, the Fairy of the Bandanna Islands took pity on him, and, descending in her car drawn by doves, gave him a 'kerchief which rendered him invisible whenever he placed it over his monstrous proboscis.

Having occasion to blow his nose (which he was obliged to do pretty frequently, for he had taken cold while lying out among the rocks and morasses in the rainy, miserable nights, so that the peasants, when they heard him snoring fitfully, thought that storms were abroad) at the gates of a castle by which he was passing, the door burst open, and the Irish Giant (afterward Clown, indeed) came out, and wondering looked about, furious to see no one.

The prince entered into the castle, and whom should he find there but the Princess Rosolia, still plunged in despair. Her father snubbed her perpetually. "I wish he would snub me!" exclaimed the prince, pointing to his own monstrous deformity. In spite of his misfortune, she still remembered her prince. "Even with his nose," the faithful princess cried, "I love him more than all the world beside!"

At this declaration of unalterable fidelity, the prince flung away the handkerchief, and knelt in rapture at the princess's feet. She was a little scared at first by the hideousness of the distorted being before her — but what will not woman's faith overcome? Hiding her head on his shoulder (and so losing sight of his misfortune), she vowed to love him still (in those broken verses which only princesses in Pantomimes deliver).

At this instant King Gorgibus, the giants, the king's household, with clubs and battle-axes, rushed in. Drawing his immense cimeter, and seizing the prince by his too prominent feature, he was just on the point of sacrificing him, when—when, I need not say, the Fairy Bandanna (Miss Bendigo), in her amaranthine car drawn by Paphian doves, appeared and put a stop to the massacre. King Gorgibus became Pantaloon, the two giants first and second Clowns, and the prince and princess (who had been, all the time of the Fairy's speech, and actually while under their father's cimeter, unhooking their dresses) became the most elegant Harlequin and Columbine that I have seen for many a long day. The nose flew up to the ceiling, the music began a jig, and the two Clowns, after saying "How are you?" went and knocked down Pantaloon.

Self love is a mote in every man's eye.
 The defects of the mind, like those of the face, increase with age,
 No fool like an old fool.
 The miser is his own executioner; a beggar in the midst of wealth.
 We should at least do something to show that we have lived.
 Few men take life in earnest.
 Few men will be better than their interest and habits bid them.
 Step after step the ladder is ascended.

ADVICE TO LITTLE GIRLS.

BY MARK TWAIN.

Good little girls ought not to make mouths at their teachers for every trifling offense. This retaliation should only be resorted to under peculiarly aggravated circumstances.

If you have nothing but a rag doll stuffed with saw-dust, while one of your more fortunate little playmates has a costly china one, you should treat her with a show of kindness nevertheless. And you ought not to attempt to make a forcible swap with her unless your conscience would justify you in it, and you know you are able to do it.

You ought never to take your little brother's "chewing-gum" away from him by main force; it is better to rope him in with the promise of the first two dollars and a half you find floating down the river on a grindstone. In the artless simplicity natural to his time of life, he will regard it as a perfectly fair transaction. In all ages of the world this eminently plausible fiction has lured the obtuse infant to financial ruin and disaster.

If at any time you find it necessary to correct your brother, do not correct him with mud—never, on any account, throw mud at him, because it will spoil his clothes. It is better to scald him a little, for then you attain desirable results. You secure his immediate attention to the lessons you are inculcating, and at the same time your hot water will have a tendency to remove impurities from his person, and possibly the skin, in spots.

If your mother tells you to do a thing, it is wrong to reply that you won't. It is better and more becoming to intimate that you will do as she bids you, and then afterward act quietly in the matter according to the dictates of your best judgment.

You should ever bear in mind that it is to your kind parents that you are indebted for your food, and your nice bed, and for your beautiful clothes, and for the privilege of staying home from school when you let on that you are sick. Therefore you ought to respect their little prejudices, and humor their little whims, and put up with their foibles until they get to crowding you too much.

Good little girls always show marked deference for the aged. You ought never to "sass" old people unless they "sass" you first.

THE BEGGAR-MAID.

BY A. TENNYSON.

THE SUBLIME AND THE RIDICULOUS.

"AFTER YOU, SIR."

HER arms across her breast she laid;
She was more fair than words can say:

Barefooted came the beggar-maid
Before the king Cophetua.

In robe and crown the king stepped down
To meet and greet her on her way;

"It is no wonder," said the lords,
"She is more beautiful than day."

As shines the moon in clouded skies,
She in her poor attire was seen,

One praised her ankles, one her eyes,

One her dark hair and lovesome mien.

So sweet a face, such angel grace,
In all that land had never been:

Cophetua sware a royal oath,

"This beggar-maid shall be my queen!"

Y^E TRUE HYSTORIE OF

ONCE upon a time there lived a little girl who had such a sweet temper that she seemed to be made of sugar and spice, like the little girl in the nursery rhyme. Her mother was very fond of her, and, in order to set off her beauty, made her a hood out of an old red flannel petticoat, in which she looked very pretty, and all the neighbors, in admiration, called her Little Red-Riding-Hood. Now, although she was a very good girl, her school-fellows said that Little Red-Riding-Hood had one very naughty little fault, which no girl, little or big, ever had before in any age of the world: she was vain—just a little vain. They even whispered that she had been known to tie two old brass ear-rings to her ears with bits of cotton, pretending that her ears had been really pierced; and that more than once she had made up her dress into an unseemly bunch behind, pretending to have a Grecian bend! One day her mother called to her as she came home from school, and said, “I’ve been making some cheese-cakes and dough-nuts to-day, and, as I’m afraid your grandmother is ill, you shall take her some of those very digestible articles.” She then stuck the bright red hood upon the back of her little girl’s head, giving her a big basket full of cakes, and a lecture on the vanity of wearing gaudy colors. Now Little Red-Riding-Hood had a wonderful little lamb. He did not know how to spell as well as his young mistress, but that he was a clever critic any one could see, for whenever she read the intellectual stories out of her spelling-book, he showed his discernment by crying "Bah! bah!" He imitated his mistress, and was a vain little lamb. So, when Little Red-Riding-Hood had set out with her cakes, he looked about for some finery for himself, and finding a wolf's skin hanging up in the wardrobe (where, of course, such things always are), he put it on, and concluded that he looked best of all the lambs—ba-ing none! On the way to her grandmother's, as Little Red-Riding-Hood was trudging along, thinking how nice it must be to be an old lady and ill, with such a big basket of cakes as medicine, the little lamb overtook her, looking for all the world like a great ugly wolf. When she saw this horrible sight, thinking it was a real wolf come to gobble up herself and the cakes, she tried to hide her face in the soft part of the stem of a tree, concluding very logically that, if she couldn't see the wolf, he couldn't see her. Having waited in this position for two seconds, expecting every moment to hear the wolf give his well known and terrible roar, her patience was naturally exhausted, and she turned round fully prepared to scream to any extent. The lamb, upon this, overjoyed at what he thought a recognition, for he thought she had "cut him dead," was so agitated that he could not open his mouth, and so, instead of expressing his feeling vocally, he kicked up his heels, and away he went—a merry somersault before the astonished eyes of the little maid. When Little Red-Riding-Hood saw this strange freak of the terrible beast, she was terribly frightened, and, seeing a street-car passing, she concluded it would be better and cheaper to ride, and certainly more pleasant to run the chance of being "taken in" at the hands of a conductor than to be taken in by the jaws of a wolf.

The lamb, however, knowing the geographical fact that two miles by car take just as long as four by foot, resolved to take a nearer way, and get to the old lady's house before Red-Riding-Hood. He set off at full speed, the wolf's head hanging over his shoulder, never heeding whom he might run over in his flight, for he was as careless of other people's comfort and lives as any New York driver. Unfortunately, the ass of the neighborhood had convened a meeting of the beasts for the purpose of discussing their common rights, and to it he had specially invited the goose, the pig, and other intellectual animals. They had met in a nice little spot in the middle of a wood, near a pool of water, which they thought very convenient, as it would serve to liquefy the eloquence of the speaker who was longest on his legs (probably the giraffe, should he be present), and it might also be an inducement to the duck, who they feared would make some excuse for not attending, and whose presence they particularly wanted, as she was the editor of a weekly paper which in the most delightful way propounded wild theories—for the duck was a “wild” one—about female suffrage, and, at the same time, preached in the most agreeable way the stupidest blasphemy. The goose, who contributed to the “Daily Cackler,” brought his wife, whose delightful little book, entitled “The Way to shell-out,” is universally used as a class-book in all schools of chickens, goslings, and young oysters. Mr. Bull had come all the way from Oxford on purpose to attend the meeting; and the hare, the frog, and many other animals, were also present, as well as a very fair gathering of birds. The most extraordinary animal who was there was a rough, wicked-looking school-boy, and no one suspected his presence, for he was hidden behind a tree. This unfortunate youth had a strong and uncommon propensity for applying his tongue to candy and other sweet-stuffs, and his school-master, a most generous and sweet-tempered man, finding him that morning in the very act of committing this dreadful offense, had promised him a “licking” of another sort. The boy, whose parents were very proud of his high spirit—which spirit he showed chiefly by pinching his little sister, running pins through the tails of cockroaches, and annoying every other human being—knowing how vast a difference there is between licking and being licked, resolved, like the highly respectable cashier of the Diddleley Bank, to abscond before accounts were balanced. Accordingly, considering justly that it was more pleasant to be hiding of his own will among the trees than to receive a hiding at the master's will in school, he went on a botanizing expedition into the very wood where the congress of beasts was assembled in earnest discussion; the ass, who was chairman, was braying loudly; the pig grunted acquiescence; the goose was applauding; and the ox, on the opposition side, was humming a low tune in defiance, while the boy behind the tree, with a pebble-stone in his hand, prepared to let fly among them. The debate increased in interest, and the noise caused by a discussion between the ass and the owl (who acted as reporter), concerning a hare-brained remark from one of the smaller beasts, was almost as great as that caused sometimes by human congresses, while their language was certainly of a higher and more intelligible order. How it all might have ended no one could tell, for at this unfortunate moment the lamb in wolf's clothing came tumbling in, and dissolved the beastly congress before they had passed a single act. Not knowing that it was the "season for lamb," the members, of course, were unprepared to offer any resistance. With unblushing haste the disturber of the peace pursued his way and arrived at the old lady's cottage. Too much agitated by his feelings, he did not wait to knock, but turned his heels to the door and began to kick in style. The old lady was lying in bed, surrounded by bottles and dishes containing physic and other delicacies, and attended by her favorite cat. She (I mean the old lady, not the cat) had once been a beauty, but, of course, as she told little girls, she was never vain; and now in her old age she innocently spent her time in considering by-gone fashions, and sorrowing that she could not use them still. Just as the lamb arrived she had taken up an old volume of the Anglo-Saxon period, called Harper's Bazar, to which St. Dunstan used to contribute fancy patterns, and was piously thinking of the mutability of all earthly things—especially fashions! Upon hearing the horrible noise outside, the paper dropped from her hands, and her companion arched his back as if expecting a catastrophe. Meanwhile the lamb, whose garment did not fit well, and who looked in the midst of his exertions like a twofold and many-legged monster, finding kicking of no avail, determined to try the soft-soap dodge, and began gently to pat at the door. Reassured by this Christian-like sound, the dame instructed her attendant to open the door, and Tom, who, with the exception of a white tie, looked as solemn as any flunky, immediately raised the latch with the greatest gravity. In rushed the disguised lamb, with a most awful countenance. The old lady looked at him through her goggles for a moment, and then fled with a terrific yell, her cat following suit. The lamb, innocently thinking to salute her, had leaped to the bed, upsetting in his haste the physic bottles, dishes, and all; but, seeing the door shut behind the old lady, he thought to wind up his day's fun by playing a trick upon his mistress. He first arrayed himself in the old lady's cap and goggles, glancing in the glass with great satisfaction; and then, having fortified himself with a draught from the only unbroken medicine bottle, which was very properly labeled "Bourbon—Poison," he laid down in the bed, hiding all but the cap beneath the clothes. Soon after this Little Red-Riding-Hood knocked at the door. "Come in," said the lamb, but in such a tone that the little girl thought her grandmother must have made herself ill with too much "physic!" She entered, however, and went up to the bed as usual to kiss the old lady. The lamb pulled down the clothes, disclosing a wolf's head surrounded by a night-cap.

Little Red-Riding-Hood screamed, and would have gone into hysterics, only she was too young to know that that was the proper thing to do. As it was, she ran away, uttering the most piteous screams. At the door, however, she tumbled over her grandmother, who had now mustered up her courage, and was returning, armed with her best silver goggles, and protected by Little-toes, her grandchild, and Tom—her only gentleman friend. The three returned to the scene of the tragedy, and there found the terrible wolf transformed into the meekest of lambs, his wolf's skin (to which an extraordinary tail was attached) remaining in the bed. Little Red-Riding-Hood, in imitation of her grandmother, began to lecture the lamb on his absurd vanity, which had been the cause of so much trouble and loss, for she had left her cakes in the car; but the old lady, whose spirits had now returned, embraced them all, whereupon the four-footed author of all this confusion repented of his evil deeds, became quite a reformed character, and, in proof thereof and of his patriotism, he shed his blood a few months after, if not for the good of his country, at least for the good of his friends.—ALFRED MILLS.

MY MOTHER.

A helpless babe, who nursed me then,
And gave me paregoric when
I wept with pain, till well again?

My Mother.

Who let me do just what I chose,
And dressed me up in fancy clothes,
And taught me how to wipe my nose?

My Mother.

And when her precious infant smiled,
Who called me "angel," "darling child,"
And laughed and wept in transport wild?

My Mother.

And watched me still with anxious care,
And washed my face, and curled my hair,
And set me in my little chair?

My Mother.

And when the colic vexed me sore,
Who then at midnight walked the floor,
And in her arms her baby bore?

My Mother.

And who my youthful body bent
Across her knee—oh, sad event!—
And spanked me to her heart's content?

My Mother.

And when I cut my finger, who Brought salve to soothe and cure it too,
 And checked my juvenile boo-hoo?
 My Mother.

And when he kicked with all his might,
 And threw me higher than a kite,
 Who fainted and fell down with fright?
 My Mother.

And when at school I made my way,
 Who heard my lessons day by day,
 Of Puget Sound and Baffin's Bay?
 My Mother.

Who gently said it was not right
 To set the dog and cat to fight,
 Or laugh at such a wicked sight?
 My Mother.

And when my pony just in play
 Ran off, and carried me away,
 Who viewed the scene with great dismay?
 My Mother.

Though she is old and all alone,
 And I to be a man have grown,
 Who calls me still her boy—her own?
 My Mother.

THE NEW YORK AND TEXAS BEEF PRESERVING CO.

Are now prepared to furnish to families their
CANNED ROAST BEEF, AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

This Beef is really more nutritious and more economical for family use than any ever offered for sale in any market, as the juices and gelatin portions are all retained in the can.

IT IS SOLID MEAT, READY COOKED.

Can contains no bone or gristle. Open the can, turn the contents into the saucepan, and when hot season to your taste and serve it upon the table as CARVED ROAST BEEF.

Its cost is less than half of the price of Butcher's meat. It is hermetically sealed and will keep for years, just as good when opened as though cooked immediately. It is all alike, very tender. It is also very nice eaten cold.

The chopped form makes excellent meat-balls, a superior hash, delicious salad, and is so much in request among mince-pie bakers as to have given it the name of "pie meat."

A great saving to Hotels and Families who have to prepare their CLEAR MEAT FOR MINCE PIES.

Two and a half pounds of beef, when divested of bone and gristle, and cooked, make about one pound of this Clear Meat.

Put up in Cases containing Two Dozen 3-lb. Cans, and in Cases containing Ten 7½-lb. Cans, Three-lb. Cans, 60 cents; 7½-lb. Cans, $1 35. Liberal discount to the trade.

GEO. H. MUNROE, President and Patentee, 16 Cedar St., New York City.

THE BICKFORD FAMILY KNITTING MACHINE.

The machine we this week bring before our readers is one which, in the accomplishment of varied results through the employment of the most simple means, has been rarely equaled. Those who have seen the complicated knitting machines at work in the large factories which at present fill the American market with knit goods, have been accustomed to regard them as essentially and necessarily complex. The inventor of this machine has shown, however, that only a few parts are necessary to accomplish a great variety of work, and, also, that these parts may be of forms easily understood, put together, and operated by those unfamiliar with machinery.

We have taken great pleasure in personally inspecting and operating this machine, and have become convinced that it comprises all that is essential for family use.

It supplies a means of fabricating many articles of usefulness in every household. A great many ornamental kinds of work, undertaken for the purpose of filling up leisure hours, but becoming tedious and burdensome before they can be completed by hand, can be begun and finished in an hour or two in such a perfect manner, and with such facility that the delight in making them is not marred through prolonged labor. We can conceive of nothing more fascinating to a tasteful mind than the rapid production of forms of beauty and usefulness effected by this machine.

The merits justly claimed for it are, the variety of work it executes; its non-liability to get out of order by transportation or use; the perfect manner in which it is made; ease in working, and absence of noise in running; the little skill required to operate it; and its capacity to knit any thing that the most expert operator can knit or crochet by hand, from a watch cord to a bed blanket. The machine, having no tension, does not wear or tear the yarn to pieces; it can therefore be raveled and knit over and over again.—Scientific American, New York, June 10, 1871.

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DAILY, WEEKLY, AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This Journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested Politicians; and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. The TIMES will continue to keep clear of all narrow and unworthy influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal factions. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, and advocate with untiring energy every cause which tends to further the welfare of the people.

The utmost care will be devoted to gathering political news from special sources during the Presidential canvass. This department of the paper will be unusually full and trustworthy. Renewed enterprise will be exhibited in every department of the paper, and large space will be devoted to reports of speeches made during elections, or on other important political occasions.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly editions; and in the Weekly edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmer's Club, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

The NEW YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

Few men enjoy a wider or better earned popularity as a writer for the young than Jacob Abbott. His series of histories, and stories illustrative of moral truths, have furnished amusement and instruction to thousands. He has the knack of piquing and gratifying curiosity. In the book before us he shows his happy faculty of imparting useful information through the medium of a pleasant narrative, keeping alive the interest of the young reader, and fixing in his memory valuable truths.—Mercury, New Bedford, Mass.

Jacob Abbott is almost the only writer in the English language who knows how to combine real amusement with real instruction in such a manner that the eager young readers are quite as much interested in the useful knowledge he imparts as in the story which he makes so pleasant a medium of instruction.—Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.

 Mr. Abbott has avoided the errors so common with writers for popular effect, that of slurring over the difficulties of the subject through the desire of making it intelligible and attractive to unlearned readers. He never tampers with the truth of science, nor attempts to dodge the solution of a knotty problem behind a cloud of plausible illustrations.—N. Y. Tribune.

MANN'S REACTIONARY LIFTER

Is the most remarkable apparatus ever invented for HEALTH EXERCISE. NO WEIGHTS USED. While adapted to the powers of the athlete, it is equally so to women and children, or to persons in the most delicate state of health. A few minutes' exercise each day is sufficient, and if taken at night induces refreshing sleep. It is at once more beautiful, compact, and durable, besides being much cheaper, than any other good apparatus for similar purposes. Books and circulars sent free on application. Call and see it, at the REACTIONARY LIFTER OFFICE, 203 Broadway, New York.

What is the Health-Lift, and what does it do? are Questions daily asked.

Hear Dr. REILLY, of Chicago.

"THE HEALTH-LIFT is no longer an experiment, but an assured success as a mode of treatment. It is not merely a system of Exercise which aims to increase muscular strength and development: sawing wood will do this, and leave the sawyer as rheumatic or dyspeptic as before. This system does not make large muscles, but firm nerves; it does not teach one to 'do the double trapeze,' but it enables him to do business more successfully and easily. It is nearer a specific for Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and many Disorders of the Brain and Nervous System than can be found in any drug-store. And it will as certainly cure these ailments, or materially alleviate them, as fire will warm the body. It is so simple, unpretending, and quiet in its operation that probably no system ever excited so much skepticism and incredulity before. But its stoutest adherents to-day were its most incredulous investigators at first."

Dr. Janes, of New York, says:—"Where the difficulty is simple weakness; or where deformity exists; or where displacement of organs has resulted, from whatever cause; or where congestion, or unequal or torpid circulation deranges the system; or where pain exists, resulting from congestion or unequal nervous action; or where there is nervous debility, from over mental action or excess; or where digestion is impaired, or constipation exists, the powerful and beneficial action of graduated lifting speedily produces relief.

"In diseases peculiar to women, Lifting, by furnishing proper physical and mental stimulus, has proved most efficient as a method of cure.

"In short, by presenting an agreeable form of exercise, capable of so gentle application that the most delicate invalid can safely attempt it, and, on the other hand, becoming the most powerful agent known for physical culture and development, it is available to all who need bodily exercise—and who does not need it?"

THE CHEAPEST AND BEST APPARATUS FOR LIFTING.

Read what disinterested witnesses say.

"One of the great inventions of the day is 'Mann's Reactionary Lifter,' which enables a man to gain strength, health, and vital power by the simple process of lifting himself. That the lifting of heavy weights is the most scientific form of exercise for sedentary men ever invented is a fact which has been established by the consenting testimony of hundreds of our ablest physicians and scientists who have tried 'Butler's Lifting Cure.' Mr. Mann's Apparatus is certainly simpler, more convenient, and less expensive than the Butler machines. It is worthy the careful attention and study of all who feel an interest in such machines."—N. Y. Evening Mail, Jan 4, 1871.

"* * * Two or three different kinds of Lifting Machines are now in use; but the simplest, and by far the cheapest and best, is that called 'Mann's Reactionary Lifter.' We are using one of these machines ourselves, and with excellent results. It is so constructed that the most feeble persons can work it with entire safety, and it can be used by ladies, in company with gentlemen, without any change of dress. We predict that 'Mann's Reactionary Lifter' will soon become an indispensable piece of household furniture, and do an amount of good which never can be computed."—N. Y. Independent, June 1, 1871.

GENTS:—Before I learned that your "Reactionary Lifter" was in the market, I had, by a year's experience of the Lift Cure, become satisfied that no form of exercise whatever approached it in effectiveness.

Your machine is by all odds the least expensive, most convenient and sensible apparatus of the kind I have ever seen.

SAMUEL C. KENNEDY, 132 Broadway, N. Y.

From Prof. T. F. Seward, Editor of N. Y. Musical Gazette.

GENTS:—I derived great benefit last year from the exercise of lifting heavy weights according to Dr. Butler's system. Having tried your "Reactionary Lifter" for accomplishing this mode of exercise, I find that in this apparatus, although without weights, you seem to pull at masses of iron, and actually accomplish in the effort the same distributed action and harmonious development. Its advantages over Weight-Lifting Machines in economy, portability, and elegance are too patent to need comment.

THEO. F. SEWARD.

MANN'S REACTIONARY LIFTER CO.:

New York, July 17, 1871.

From my personal experience of the benefits to be derived from a systematic and intelligent use of the "Lifting Cure" in general, I would particularly state in reference to your special machine that, after having used it for some four months myself, I am fully satisfied that in its effects it is equal, if not superior, to any other with which I am acquainted, while for cheapness and portability it is equaled by none.

Yours truly,

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

10 cents a Number; $4 00 a Year.

Originally intended to be a pictorial record of noteworthy events occurring in every part of the world, as well as a popular medium of popular information and amusement, it has become, without losing these features, a very powerful organ of political opinion. Its leading articles on domestic and foreign questions and political events are distinguished by weight of argument and force of style, while never offensive in tone nor transcending the limits of cultivated journalism. The plan on which it is conducted necessitates the reliance upon foreign sources for the illustration of events occurring in Europe and other parts of the Old World, although original sketches, sent from abroad, are frequently engraved for its pages; and some of the best pictures it has given have been from the pencils of American artists. Among these we may mention the powerful political cartoons of Mr. Nast, which, for several years, have been a prominent feature in the paper.—N. Y. Times.

The best publication of its class in America, and so far ahead of all other weekly journals as not to permit of any comparison between it and any of their number. Its columns contain the finest collections of reading-matter that are printed.  Its illustrations are numerous and beautiful, being furnished by the chief artists of the country.—Boston Traveller.

Harper's Weekly is the best and most interesting illustrated newspaper. Nor does its value depend on its illustrations alone. Its reading-matter is of a high order of literary merit—varied, instructive, entertaining, and unexceptionable.—N. Y. Sun.

Harper's Weekly deserves its primacy in this class of publications, alike for the value of its reading-matter and the excellence of its illustrations. The spirited and telling pictorial satires of Nast are a power in society, and are dictated in aid of a sound public opinion, and against public wrongs and follies. The editorials on public affairs are models of discussion, weighty and temperate, supporting high principles in an elevated tone and a chastened literary style.—Examiner and Chronicle.

The latest addition to Harper's Weekly is the admirable supplements which it prints with each number. These supplements represent the addition to the Weekly of a paper half as large as the ordinary Harper's used to be. The publishers now boast that it is larger than any other illustrated paper published weekly, and there seems to be good reason to admit the claim. It is gratifying to see so much enterprise employed in catering to the public taste.—N. Y. World.

The friends of truth, liberty, and law owe much to Messrs. Harper & Brothers, and every one of such ought to show his appreciation of their course by subscribing for Harper's Weekly, or, having it already, induce at least one other person to follow his example.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

It has become one of our American institutions. No family is completely happy without it.—Philadelphia City Item.

What's the use in our praising Harper's Weekly? It is so popular that no words of ours can help it, and it is so good that we do not see how it can be better, and yet is better each week. Whereunto it will attain is a theorem more difficult than the nominal.—Watchman and Reflector.

More enterprise than ever is being displayed in this popular weekly. The illustrations are more numerous and marked by better judgment in the selection of subjects and greater beauty of execution.—Philadelphia Inquirer.
